

"By which, He either simply shows that those who would become greater must receive the poor of Christ in honor of Him, or He would persuade them to be in malice children, to keep simplicity without arrogance, charity without envy, devotedness without anger. Again, by taking the child into His arms, He implies that the lowly are worthy of his embrace and love."

MUSIC

The choir is off to a great start for Fall 2021.

I have found a book of several songs that encourage us to a “revival” and “renewal” in our lives: Bring Us Back. The song you will hear during communion in early October is “Come Just As You Are.” Written by Joseph Sabolick, the lyrics are inspiring: “Come just as you are; hear the Spirit call. Come and see, come receive; come and live forever.” The choir special today is “In This Very Room.” Please listen closely to the lyrics: “In this very room there’s quite enough love for one like me.....quite enough joy.....quite enough hope and quite enough power to chase away any gloom.” I hope it brings you comfort as we continue to pray for this world and remember the 20th anniversary of 9/11.

GOD BLESS AMERICA!

Peace and Hope!

Michael

P.S. I apologize for any distractions during your quiet time of prayer before mass begins. Choir rehearsal begins at 9:20 and we will be finished by 9:50. I will be mindful that we share a “space” for choir rehearsal and your time of meditation and reflection!
